AVIATION SCHOLARSHIP

APPLICATION FORM* date received by DMASC _____

This is scholarship money made available by Dean Memorial Airport Commission Scholarship Committee for students seeking further training/education in the aviation field – either as a pilot or in A&P mechanics – airframe and power plant, or related fields.

ELIGIBILITY

Potential recipients will be graduating high school seniors or homeschoolers, or other students of the immediate two-state New Hampshire/Vermont region.

Applicants will provide a short synopsis (300 words or less) of what field they are seeking to study and why. Recipients will be chosen on scholastic achievement, financial need and/or any other area of merit. Applicants should also be prepared to meet personally at some point with Committee members for a brief interview.

Applicants will also supply, with this completed application, proof of acceptance from a recognized vo/tech school or college.

And the scholarship funds will be released directly to the learning institution, not the student, toward payment of the costs of attendance – first payment will not begin until otherwise qualified recipients can demonstrate successful completion of the initial semester. In addition, regular written proof from the institution of successful completion of ensuring semesters for the continuance of payment of scholarship funds.

AWARD

Student Pilot Scholarship Program

Local residents wishing to obtain flight lessons through this scholarship program must contact the commission for an application and submit it to the commission for consideration. Scholarships may be awarded and the amount may vary from partial to full according to the wishes of the commission.

If awarded a scholarship for flight lessons, the following procedure will be applied.

1. Contact a flight instructor of choice. The commission may be able to assist in finding an instructor or you may go online with the EAA or AOPA sites to locate one. Ask the instructor for permission to take an online pilot course at the level desired (Private, Sport, etc).
2. Obtain and take an online course. These are available from Gliem, Sporty's and King to name a few. These courses can be taken at any pace you choose. You can finish in weeks or months. At the end of the online course, you will be given a certificate to take an official FAA written test. Courses range up to $199 at present and the test might be about $100. When you pass the test, you may submit the cost of the course and test to the commission for reimbursement. There will be no reimbursements for failed or incomplete courses or tests.
3. Contact the flight instructor again and advise that you have passed the FAA written and are ready for flight lessons. Advise the commission that you are ready to fly and how much you expect the airplane and instructor to cost. Obtain approval to begin from the commission.
4. On a monthly basis, provide the commission with a breakdown of flight hours, skills covered and costs. The commission shall reimburse you for these costs at the rate agreed by the commission at the time of application up to 100%. It is advised to fly no less than 1 hour per week to continue building on previous lessons and minimize needing to relearn skills over again.
5. Upon completion, the commission requests that the student participate in a press release of the accomplishment of becoming a pilot through this program.
